

THOMAS A. WARD PRESENTS LOT

Committee Recommend That School Be Erected on Lafayette Road-- Matter Now Up to Council-- Other Business.

A meeting of the Board of Instruction was held on Tuesday evening and the principal business was the consideration of a site for the new school building. The special committee reported through the chairman, Mr. Houghton, that the committee had looked over several sites but the only one that they would recommend was that of the corner of Lafayette road and South road. Mr. Thomas A. Ward, the owner of the lot had made a most generous offer to the city that if the city would put the school house on a lot adjoining to his lot, which is on the corner, across from his residence, that he would give his lot for a play ground with the one condition, that no building be erected on it or that no roads be laid out across it. The committee had secured a lot on a lot of land 150 feet frontage on Lafayette road and 200 feet deep, and adjacent to the Ward lot, which could be purchased for a reasonable sum, less than $2000. This lot was owned by the Consolidation Coal Company, who were willing to sell. This would give the city a lot larger than any they now owned for school purposes and would assure a fine play ground connected with the school. It was explained that it was a little out from where it was originally intended that the site should be located, but it was in the right direction and not over a few hundred yards from the center of the population sought to be taken care of. The other lots were one in the Mendum field, but no option could be secured, another on the South road near the head of Wabird street and another off Lawrence street, but the Lafayette road lot was considered the best. Mr. Harford and Mr. McCarthy both favored the acceptance of Mr. Ward's offer, which was a most generous one, for the lot he offered was the most valuable one in that section of the city, graded and an ideal place for a play ground in connection with the school, while the adjoining lots could be purchased at a reasonable figure. On motion the report was accepted and the recommendations adopted, after which Mr. Pringle stated that the location was satisfactory to him.

WORKED SAME GAME IN DOVER

Merchants Relieved of Their Money by Bogus Electric Scale Agent

Several of the merchants of Dover are reported to have been separated from their money through a slick game which was attempted in this city recently. The money was obtained by bogus agents for Electric scales, who secured an advance payment and then skipped town. About $100 was collected before the merchants discovered they had been fleeced. The police blocked the game here in the arrest of George Carroll, alias George Lessard, whom Officers Murphy and McCaffery got on Congress

Captain Phinney So Reports to Piscataqua Harbor Last Evening.

Piscataqua Harbor, No. 3, of Masters, Mates and Pilots met on Tuesday evening at G. A. R. hall. The secretary, E. H. Currier, read a large amount of correspondence from National Vice President John H. Proett relative to bills now in Congress to aid navigation. Captain Warren N. Phinney, president of the local harbor, to whom was left to decide where the lightship should off Cape Cod should be located, reported that he had decided it should be placed in latitude 42-01-15; Longitude 70-02-06, two miles east-south-east of Cape Cod. The Masters, Mates and Pilots are to have a new magazine named after the association and the first issue will appear May 19, 1914. OFFICIAL IN TRAIN WRECK

Car Jumps Rails and Just Escapes Going Down Embankment.

A special train conveying J. M. Tyler, general superintendent; H. H. Pollock, general manager; C. H. Wright, superintendent of motive power, and a Mr. Sawtell, all officials of the Boston and Maine railroad from Boston, left the rails just out of Claremont station Tuesday on a curve, slipping on the short side. The engine tender and first car were but partially off, but the parlor car bearing the officials came within a few feet of going over a hundred foot embankment, stopping, almost tipped over. It was said by some of the wrecking crew that if the car went a few feet further, it would have gone to the meadow below. The wreck stopped all trains from reaching Claremont Junction. Passengers took the electric cars to make connections. A wrecking crew from Belknap Falls, Vt., and one from Concord were called. Several hundred feet of roadbed and rails were damaged. The Boston Busters, a slide order of Odd Fellowship, held a largely attended meeting at Odd Fellows banquet hall on Tuesday evening.

GAVE FORTUNE TO CHAUFFEUR

East Kingston Woman Cuts Her Relatives Off With $50 Each and They Will Contest the Will

The preliminary steps have been commenced to contest the will of Alice E. French of East Kingston, who after cutting her three relatives off with $50 each, bequeathed the remainder of her fortune, consisting of valuable real estate in Kingston, as well as several thousand dollars in money, to her chauffeur, Albert Gannon. Miss French, who was 48 years old, died at East Kingston in January last. On May 21, 1913, she made her will and after leaving $50 to her two brothers and a sister, gave the remainder of her property from $12,000 to $15,000 to her chauffeur, aged 24 years. Naturally this was not pleasing to her kin and they employed the firm of Eastman, Scammon and Gardner, of Exeter to contest the will. County Solicitor Smith and the firm of Shute and Shute have been retained to sustain the will. The first hearing in the matter was held at Exeter on Tuesday before Judge of Probate Louis G. Hoyt. The hearing was adjourned to some date after the April term of the superior court, to be agreeable to the court and counsel for both parties. A strong fight will be made by the relatives to break the will and an equally strong one will be made to sustain it, and counsel are preparing for a long drawn out legal fight.

WOMAN FRIGHTENS BURGLAR

Another Attempted Break at New Castle This Morning

Between two and three o'clock this morning Miss Jennie Brillon, a resident of Main street, New Castle was awakened by the breaking of glass, and got out of bed to investigate. Without lighting a lamp, she quickly pulled back the curtain of her chamber window and discovered a man attempting to enter the grocery store of Miss Ida Locke, about 20 feet away. Miss Brillon opened the window and gave an alarm. The prowler immediately took to the run and went so quick that she was unable to get any description of him. The town had had an epidemic of petty burglaries of late in the upper section and an attempt was made a few nights ago to enter the public library. The residents are at a high pitch over the hold work of these crooks and will demand that the selectmen order the town patrolled by night.

The Atlantic Literary club met at the home of Mrs. Charles M. Remick of Brackett's lane on Monday evening with a large attendance of members. UNEMPLOYMENT INVESTIGATED.

"General" Coxey of Coxey's army fame addressed a mass meeting in New York Monday to stir up enthusiasm for the coming "march on Washington" and to get volunteers for the army, which is to reach Washington about the middle of May and labor with Congress for measures for the relief of the unemployed. The general's hearers heard his remarks with evidences of hearty approval, declaring that they would join the army, and if work should happen to come their way before the time for it to start for the national capital they would "chuck it." That is, they would refuse work and march to Washington to lift up their voices in behalf of the unemployed. In the gathering were members of the I. W. W., who suggested that the army should help itself to whatever it wanted along the line of march, but Mr. Coxey would not listen to this proposition.

In striking contrast to this program is the result of an investigation of labor conditions which has been made in Boston during the last few weeks by federal investigators. There has been a great cry of unemployment in that city, and bread lines and soup houses have been maintained for the relief of the suffering. Some government agents finally went to the city to ascertain the facts of the situation, and they took the correct way to do it. Instead of advertising their arrival and their mission they disguised themselves as hoboes, mixed with the crowds, ate at free lunch counters, stood in the bread lines and came into close touch generally with the "army of unemployed."

And what was the result? The agents found that while good positions were scarce there was no occasion for any such demonstration as was being made. They learned that through the state free employment bureau temporary work could be obtained for practically every one who really desired employment, and they themselves, being unknown to the officers of the bureau, were offered steady work on farms only 20 miles from the city.

There is every reason to believe that the larger part of the marching and shouting that have been done the past winter under the cloak of non-employment has been unnecessary. Good positions have been scarce, of course. They usually are, but honest labor is generally to be had by those who honestly look for it. The trouble is that those who join in these demonstrations instead of looking for work are looking for chance to work charitable individuals and the public.

A GENEROUS GIFT.

The magnificent gift of Thomas A. Ward as reported to the School Board on Tuesday evening, of a public playground for the School to be located there was certainly a magnificent thing for Mr. Ward to do. That the citizens generally will return thanks goes without saying.

New York's woman commissioner of corrections has decided to do away with some of the privileges that have been available to wealthy prisoners in that city. They will not hereafter be allowed to have luxurious meals sent in from restaurants, though they will be permitted to patronize the "prison caterers," and thus fare better than the common herd. Why should wealth be allowed to create any distinction whatever among men behind the bars?

Who says the courts of the country do not do their best to get at the facts? In a Massachusetts court recently two police officers were asked to dance the tango in order that the court might know what sort of an offense it was dealing with, and for a similar reason a New York court has called upon a young woman to "hit" the opium pipe in its presence. If this is not going to the bottom of things, how is it to be done?

It is planned to have telephonic communication between New York and San Francisco as a part of the opening ceremonies of the Panama-Pacific exposition. Possibly also by wireless telephony they may be able to follow the flying men around the world—or as far around as they will get.

In a cooking contest at Newport, R. I., the boys beat the girls in making biscuits. They have always been able to hold their own in eating them, and this feat shows that the women folks are not the only ones looking for new worlds to conquer.

President Wilson is understood to be in sympathy with the railroads in their demands for higher freight rates. It is becoming apparent that the railroads cannot be dogged to death with benefit to the country.

While there will be criticism of Secretary Daniels' order removing all liquors from war ships those who believe in square deal will be with the secretary.

Where politics is taught in our local schools it should be a regular subject with a true picture of all the parties.

CURRENT OPINION

Feminism and Masculine Co-operation Important to the Best Development of the Race.

A woman should tell a man everything that has been in her life before she marries him. If he is willing and eager to take her in spite of her mistakes, her sins, then he is a real man and will make a real husband.

Feminism and Masculine are equally important to the best development of the race. But what is even more important is co-operation between the two.

A woman thinks in terms of humanity. A man thinks in terms of dollars and cents. Life is the greatest motive force for women. Organization and intellect are the motive forces of the man.

Just because your husband forgot to bring you a bunch of violets on your wedding anniversary is no reason why you should wallow in a slough of sentimentality. Make sentiment serve you instead of weighing you down.

Woman will gradually return to the happy days when she was the perfect homemaker, grooming her husband for the battle of life and sending him forth in condition to win for their family and their home—Mrs. Elizabeth Towne, Author.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Bishop Hamilton's Sermon

Editor of the Herald:—
 Undoubtedly Christians consider the sermon by Bishop Hamilton as reported in your Monday's paper as a wonderful exposition of their superstition.

But such an absurdity should cause every thinking, intelligent person to absolutely and forever sever their connection with such a delusion. It has not been equalled since the publication of the prophetic plume of the late Pastor Adams of the Advent church.

The attempt to demonstrate an impossibility by compounding camphor spirits of wine and water is a comparison that would make a class in chemistry in a high school ashamed of itself.

The Bishop's assertion that he would rather hug a falsehood for the pious comfort that it gives him, in the face of scientific knowledge and historical criticism is an admission that he lacks mental integrity. It is a symptom of religious ineptitude. The user of drugs could make the same argument for the deadening of the senses. It relieves one from experiencing the facts of existence. It is spiritual stupor, altogether childish, and not a credit to an educated man.

There are things of more importance than this Christian fancy.

Dig Up Their Own Money

Editor Herald:—
 Members of the Franklin Pierce Veteran Association say they are to dispose of the handout True W. Priest in a sale to the duty-free department, or anybody who will give the price asked. What have the shareholders to say about this? If the machine is sold let the veterans use the proceeds of the sale towards the master they are crying for and not expect the public to provide money everytime they wish to entertain their friends from Seabrook, Amesbury and other places.

MEMBER OF THE FRANKLIN PIERCE ASSOCIATION.

Let's Have Peace

Editor Herald:—
 For heaven's sake will we ever hear the end of the row between the veteran, firemen and the active department.

Every time a muster is proposed, which certainly is a good thing for any city, the hammer-brigade among the regulars get busy.

The veterans, it can be seen do not ask any assistance from the active department financially or otherwise and why let them work up the muster without bringing up old scores. It is time to forget and forgive on the part of the regular department and if they don't care to assist in this work of getting the muster for Portsmouth, let them at least quit their opposition to the same.

The veterans should be encouraged in this undertaking to boom the town and their efforts will not be pigheaded by any opposition of the active department through their petty jealousy.

X. Y. Z.

Is He Ever Satisfied?

Editor of The Herald:—In a recent issue of your paper a correspondent who signs himself "Observer," goes out of his way to attack the veteran firemen and their efforts to secure for this city the New England firemen's muster, which would bring many people here and be a benefit to the merchants of this city. The author of the article cannot disguise his identity and his criticisms of not only the veterans, the regular department and some of the former chief engineers are not taken seriously by any one but are regarded as a huge joke. The question naturally arises in this party ever satisfied? The attempt to create ill feeling between the veterans and the regulars by this individual who imagines he is the whole thing in the department, is entirely unfeeling for, and will in time act as a boomerang.

Advertising Talks

HUMOR IS FOUND IN ADVERTISING

Desire to Draw Trade Crops Out in Unexpected Places and at Odd Times.

Undoubtedly a real genius is responsible for the pronouncement that it takes a rich man to draw a check, a pretty girl to draw attention, a horse to draw a cart, a mustard plaster to draw the skin, a toper to draw a cork, a free lunch to draw a crowd, and an advertisement to draw trade.

It is along this latter line, for the purpose of drawing trade, that a newspaper exclusively for beggars is published in Paris. Its columns are filled with notices of funerals, baptisms, weddings and other social and public events calculated to guarantee generous responses to pathetic appeals from the beggars who, thus apprised, flock to the scene of the functions, night or day.

A choice sample of humor in advertising is furnished by the notice of dissolution of a disastrous business venture between two gentlemen of color in the south. The following bon mot for insertion in the local paper was penned by the survivor of the wreck.

"De copartnership heretofore existing twixt Mose Skinner an me an dis day resolved. Dem what owes de firm will settle wid me, en dem what de firm owes will settle wid Mose."

About the last place in which one would look for advertising is the churchyard, but it has been demonstrated that even there all is fish that comes to the net of the far-reaching advertiser. It is recorded of a certain shopkeeper possessing a grim sense of humor that he had his grave dug and a tombstone erected at its head some years before his death. On the marble he caused to be inscribed: "Here lies John Emerson, the Best Hatter in Ohio."

A Canadian firm went this one better. The senior partner having passed to his reward, his business associates erected a monument to his memory. The tombstone bore these words: "Here lies Abram Stokes, founder of the firm of Stokes, Stokes & Co., who for many years have manufactured pickles and bottled fruits. Best of all and without a rival."

For her late husband a grief-stricken widow across the ocean put up a stone with this touching inscription upon it: "Here lies —, dear departed husband of —, who now carries on his business of general outfitter, and always gives good value; terms cash."

Bill Nye, the lamented provoker of smiles, once had a cow to sell, or proposed to have, and he advertised the animal in this manner:

"Owing to my ill health, I will sell at my residence in the township 19, range 18, according to the government survey, one plush raspberry cow, giving milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her present home with a stay chain, but she will be sold to anyone who will treat her right. She is one-fourth Shorthorn and three-fourths hyena. I will also throw in a double-barreled shotgun, which goes with her. In May she usually goes away for a week or two and returns with a tall red calf with wobbly legs. Her name is Rose. I would rather sell to a non-resident."

In the want columns of an English newspaper not long since appeared the following notice: "Widower, living retired, without encumbrance, would like to correspond with lady about forty, with small means, with one leg preferred, with a view to an early marriage." It is to be regretted that the advertiser did not explain why he preferred a one-legged helpmate.

Another Englishman in his home paper boldly declared his want of a wife, "who must be quite dumb and deaf, at least fifty years of age, and who hates music, children, pet dogs and strong drink."

City Will Advertise.

Pasadena, Cal., will be well advertised, both in the north and south, in the fall and winter months. At a recent meeting of the board of trade directors it was decided to send sets of the latest Pasadena stereoscopic views to the California development board, for exhibition at the board's lectures in the Ferry building, San Francisco. Similar sets will also be sent the Radnor World's Fair tour at San Antonio, Texas, the lectures being under the supervision of A. L. Behman, the president, and for the purpose of attracting large numbers of people to visit the Pacific coast during the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915.

Difference Between Advertisers.

The tyro waits until conditions are "right" for advertising before he begins. The man who has made his success, and is still making it, used advertising as a force to make conditions right. Therein lies a big difference in men which will explain many successes and many failures.

TALKS ON THRIFT.

No. 14—An Interest Income for You and Your Children.

"If one does not have the right regard for the value of money and the importance of thrift in business relations, he will be handicapped just so much in his strivings toward success."—Ernest G. Draper.

Have you one income from the work of your hands and brain and another from the work of your savings?

It is an encouraging fact that the person who starts out to create capital for himself need not rely solely on his own energy.

The addition of compound interest will mount up wonderfully as time passes. In a few years your earned interest will be a considerable portion of the total of your accomplishment.

If you can once get into the habit of saving and depositing something every week, no matter how moderate the sum, you are fairly started on the road to financial success because you are developing the habit of thrift.

You are simply buying future income when you use part of your regular income now to build up a fund whose earnings will reward you later. The more you pay—that is, the larger your deposit—the greater your future income will be, either from the compound interest paid on savings, or as interests or dividends from securities when you graduate into the investor class.

Don't be content to limit your income to your own earning power. Add the earning power of savings to it.

You always want to shield that little daughter of yours from the harsh world, don't you?

Or, if she must go out to battle with it, you want her to be as well prepared for the conflict as possible, do you not?

And that boy of yours—You have ambitions for him, of course.

Thrift in the home is a splendid heritage for either a boy or a girl.

Do you realize that your son will be a better business man and enjoy greater opportunities if he learns the value of money and saves some of it while he is growing up?

Do you know that your daughter will be a more sensible and attractive young person, and in time a better wife and mother, if, early in life, she acquires the right attitude towards money and learns that spending it is not the only way to use it?

Besides the training in thrift which you give, your actual accumulation of a reserve fund for future requirements is important.

Parents, if you have already saved a little nest egg and there is a young child in your home about whose future education you are concerned, why not deposit $1,000 in the bank for the child now?

By the time the child is ready for college, there will be two thousand dollars waiting for him or her instead of one thousand, even if you never deposited another cent in the meantime.

WILL BE PLAYED IN DURHAM.

Local baseball fans will be disappointed over the fact that the Dartmouth-New Hampshire baseball game, which was originally scheduled to be played in this city on Tuesday of next week, will be played in Durham. This action is due to the fact that the recent rains have made the local playground in such a condition that it would be impossible to play any kind of a game of baseball.

SMALL HATS THIS SEASON.

Fashion has swung back again to the small hat. There are many other radical changes in millinery styles this spring. Just turn to the advertising columns in The Herald and notice the interesting stories they are telling from day to day. Fashions come and go as fast as the scenes of a motion picture.

The stores are ever alert to follow and proclaim the fashion changes—and the advertising is the voice of the stores.

To keep up-to-date on the fashions this season one must be a read of advertising.

Every line of it is news of great interest and importance.

Trio of Governors Prominent In Affairs of Western Conference.

The annual meeting of the western governors' conference has become a most valuable means of promoting the prosperity of the vast section represented. This year's gathering at Denver was made doubly important because the secretary of the Interior, Franklin K. Lane, arranged for an irrigation congress to be held in connection with it. Three of the governors taking an active and important part in the affairs of the conference are Oswald West of Oregon, E. M. Ammons of Colorado and G. W. P. Hunt of Arizona. MUST APPEAR IN UNIFORM

Naval Officers Hear that Sec. Daniels Will Bar Civilian Dress Soon

Secretary Daniels of the navy department is to issue another order to go into effect July 1 according to the general knowledge and understanding of naval officers which will be almost as revolutionary as his recent order abolishing the officer's wine rite.

That all officers as well as enlisted men in the navy and marine corps appear in uniform at all times and on all occasions will be the new order it is said, and officers who have been unofficially informed are now making preparations.

For years naval and marine officers have appeared in civilian dress on the streets, at the theatres while visiting, going to and from the yards, etc.

In other navies, as in Germany, especially, officers as well as enlisted men appear at all times in uniform and in the uniform especially prescribed in the bill of dress for the particular occasion. After July 1, it is said that will be the custom in the United States navy.

The order will also apply to all enlisted men. Few of them however, have civilian outfits on shipboard or at the barracks, and on nearly all ships every enlisted man has left and returned in uniform. The men on some ships, such as the receiving ship at a navy yard, and old time's and post garrison duty men at marine barracks have civilian clothing and leave and return to their posts in civilian attire.

Others who are not officially accorded that privilege shift into "civvies" outside the yard, there being several places which make a business of letting lockers to enlisted men.

The privilege for men leaving or returning to the ships and barracks in civilian clothing is to be officially revoked it is said, because of complications which have arisen from the privilege, and the order to that effect carries with it the unofficial, as explanation, that on and after July 1, all officers will be called upon to observe a similar rule.

HATS GOING IN THE RING

Indications of a Political Battle Between Felker and Hollis.

Daniel W. Gallagher, who was private secretary to Governor Samuel D. Felker, during the latter's campaign for re-election he now holds, spent Monday with the governor at the state house. Mr. Gallagher is now connected with the Manchester Union and the fruits of his day with the governor appear in a news article published in the Union of Tuesday morning of which the salient paragraphs are as follows:

"Governor Felker showed by his conversation yesterday that he would like to see Frank P. Carpenter of this city enter the race for the Democratic nomination for governor, and that he would be elected."

"Regarding his own course he said: 'I will not run for governor again. I believe in helping some other fellow show.'"

The talk then turned on Democratic probabilities for the governorship with Albert Wellington Noone of Peterborough and John C. Hutchins of Stratford being mentioned as prospective candidates.

"Hutchins wants the nomination, and Noone wants the nomination," said the governor. Then he put the query:

"How about Frank P. Carpenter of Manchester? I wonder if he couldn't be induced to run?"

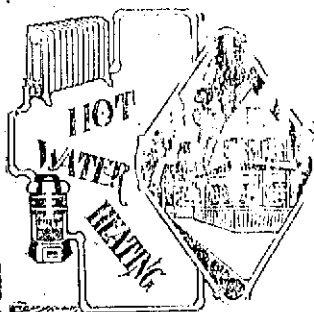

"In what followed Governor Felker plainly showed that he considered Mr. Carpenter would make an ideal candidate for the Democratic nomination and that there would be every likelihood of his winning both nomination and election."

"The governor considers that Senator Hollis is lending every assistance to the bean launched in behalf of Stevens for United States senator, but it does not seem to disturb him."

"His inquiries and comment plainly showed that he is going after the nomination with a view of winning and that he holds the opinion Samuel D. Felker of Rochester stands a good chance of succeeding Jacob H. Gallagher in the upper branch of congress."

"Governor Felker recently caused the appointment of Mr. Carpenter (whom he now honors for the governorship) to membership on the board of trustees of the Boston & Maine railroad, who were selected to take over the business of that system and straighten out its affairs."

Still Fighting

Captain Temple M. Potts, in a formal statement to Senator B. R. Tillman, of South Carolina, chairman of the naval affairs committee, in support of his fight for reinstatement in the navy as a rear admiral, challenges the accuracy of statements made before the committee by Rear Admiral Victor Blue.

Captain Potts' statement and the report of the hearing before the committee was put in the Congressional Record by Senator Tillman.

In these hearings Rear Admiral Blue is quoted as saying: "Sections 1,492-1,510, revised statutes provided that all officers of the navy in the eligible for promotion shall pass such professional, moral, mental and physical examinations as the secretary of the navy from time to time prescribes." Captain Potts says no such statutes are in existence, and that the secretary of the navy has no authority to change or make requirements for the qualifications of officers. He quotes Section 1,496 as requiring an officer's moral, mental and professional fitness to be established by an examining board.

THE GUILLOTINE TO BE USED FOR REVENGE

Erected in Mexico for Federal Officers Who Have Mistreated Rebels Families.

Juarez, Mex., April 7.—The guillotine has made its appearance in Mexico, and a new form of execution confronts the enemies of the Constitution in San Luis Potosi. It was erected today.

At Concepcion del Oro, a home-made guillotine has been erected. It was built by rebel mechanics in the corps commanded by Gen. Emilio Gutierrez, who is now in this city conferring with Carranza.

Already the new instrument has been tested, and, as the general says, "it works splendidly." The test was made with a lamb as the victim.

Desire for revenge is responsible for the appearance of the guillotine in Mexico. Gen. Gutierrez' brother-in-law, Jose Morales, was killed recently in battle against the Federalists near Saltillo. The family of Morales, including an infant daughter and Gutierrez' sister, were living in Saltillo.

The Federal commander arrested the relatives of Gutierrez, placed them aboard a troop train and sent them to San Luis Potosi. The baby died on exposure on the way and nothing is known of the fate of other members of the family.

Plain stories told by Rebels, this is only one of the many instances where the women and children of Rebel officers have been taken from Saltillo by the Federalists and sent to other cities and to supposedly horrible fates. It is said that in some instances the women have been given to the Federal soldiers.

Campaign Against San Luis Potosi.—Gen. Gutierrez says he will leave Juarez in two or three days to resume his campaign against San Luis Potosi. "My outposts are within eight kilometers of the capital of that state, and I expect to capture the place this time. Fourteen thousand men are under arms in the state and I can send them all against that city."

"And when I have taken it I hope to find my sister and her family. If they have been mistreated, the guillotine is ready for action."

FOUGHT OVER MADERA RANCH

Rebel Cavalry Held Back Saltillo Federalists—Three Americans Pointed at the Machine Gun.

Torreon, Mex., April 7.—In the midst of the final day of fighting for the possession of Torreon and Laguna country an Indian runner arrived at Villa's headquarters in the suburbs of Torreon, with the information that a large force of Federalists were advancing along the railroad line from Saltillo, San Pedro and Rancho Buena Vista.

The relief column was made up of six train loads, carrying 2500 regular infantry, 500 mounted, rurales, one battery of four three-inch French field artillery and a battery of four howitzers and six rapid fire machine guns.

Two ammunition trains followed, all in command of Gen. Emilio Cumpia, the Federal irregular who led Oro's troops at Parral when Villa defeated them.

A brief encampment for rest was made at Ciudad San Pedro, the home of Francisco I. Madero who became president and was killed in Mexico City. While encamped a Constitutionalist column of 500 well mounted men under Col. Toribio Ortega succeeded in dynamiting the big steel bridge over the San Pedro river.

They were engaged by the Federal flankers and were driven back after their work was completed there. They drove the Federalists out, and continued to burn and dynamite bridges along the railroad toward Torreon.

Rebel Cavalry Brigade Sent Out

When the Indian arrived with the report of this engagement I was on the firing line with Villa and Gen. Felipe Angeles, the artillery commander. They conferred a minute, and immediately dispatched two brigades of 2000 cavalry, in command of Gen. Rosalio Hernandez and Toribio Ortega. These were ordered to stop the Federalists before they advanced further toward Torreon, at whatever cost.

I went with Ortega, having been given a horse by Villa when I expressed a desire to see some of the fighting to the east. The Ortega brigade had three mounted machine guns, in charge of American adventurers, who were so beguiled by the 30 days fighting that they could hardly be distinguished from the Mexicans except for their rough neck coal sweaters, which they wore in place of coats.

One was Grey Leyva, an American Indian, who was formerly a football halfback at the Carlisle Indian school, and who scored on Yale when he was in college. Another was "Long Tom" Oildart, a graduate of Louisiana University, and a third Jack Kanner, a California cow puncher, who looked the part, with his high-heeled boots and inevitable cigarette.

Leaving the long, crooked firing line which marked the rebel positions in Torreon, we rode at a maddening gallop until it was dark on the desert, reaching Sacramento, on a branch of the International Railroad running to Tia Juapilla.

This was approximately half way to San Pedro across the desert waste, and we made another day of the hardest kind of riding across the plains. The rebel trumpeter who rode alongside of Gen. Ortega kept blowing the advance all the way and the men rode so hard that many of their horses were killed under them and they had to remount fresh ones and ride even harder to regain their positions in the ranks.

Scouts Found, Nearly Exhausted.

We reached La Concordia, a settlement six miles west of San Pedro, where the troops met Toribio Sanchez's brave little band of 300 which had been harassing the Federalists like hornets from their rear. These scouts were exhausted and completely exhausted, their ammunition was gone, and they would no doubt have perished had the reinforcements not arrived when they did.

They were still holding the Federalists from advancing further toward Torreon, and their work was accomplished in open skirmish order for the bat-falones of Ortega and Sanchez formed in open skirmish order for the battle and the engagement started.

Ortega's brigade was on the right, the machine gun section in command of the cowpuncher the Indian and the college graduate in the center, and Hernandez's brigade was on the left, with the exhausted fighters held in the rear as reserves.

The Federalists were entrenched in the irrigation ditches which watered San Pedro's irrigated fields and vineyards. This was a mile west of the town proper. The battle started at 10 a. m. with Rosalio Hernandez's column leading the attack in a flanking effort.

The Federalists sent out 200 Federal Rurales to attempt a counter flanking movement. The machine guns rattled and swung around to catch them broadside, and many dropped from their saddle or fell with their horses. A great cloud of dust permitted them to strike the main battle line of the rebels on the left flank before they were seen plainly or could be fired at accurately.

When the dust finally lifted the battle was being fought hand to hand. Macheles, sabers and revolvers were being used and hand grenades thrown back and forth, adding to the confusion. The colonel commanding the Rurales was killed in such an engagement with one of Hernandez's men, and his trumpet was killed at his side while blowing a charge.

The Constitutionalist lost eight men, including a major by Hernandez's brigade.

Two wounded Rurales were captured and held while the center column pursued the remainder to the Federal trenches. Then the rebel right wing, in command of Toribio Ortega, circled and swept down on the Federal intrenchments.

The action became general and the machine guns were brought up and used with good effect in dislodging the Federalists from the trenches or keeping them down so low that they could not shoot accurately.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wood of Portsmouth, N. H., announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Mr. Robert Lawrence Lamont. Mr. Lamont is a Lowell Textile 1912 man and Miss Wood was of the class of 1909 Wellesley.

BETTER TRAIN SERVICE.

Beginning Monday, April 13, 1914, two additional round trips will be added to the York Harbor and Beach Railroad service, leaving Portsmouth for York Beach at 10:55 a. m., and 2:55 p. m., and returning from York Beach at 12:55 and 4:00 p. m.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE OPENS IN TEMPORARY BUILDINGS

Wellesley, April 7.—With a temporary, one-story wooden building containing 66 rooms as a "makeshift" substitute for College Hall, which was burned March 17 at a loss of more than $200,000, Wellesley College was reopened today for the rest of its academic year.

The new building was constructed in 10 days at a cost of $32,000. It will be torn down in two years, according to present plans, for a new group of buildings on the site of the old administration building.

Today was the date originally set for the opening of the spring term. Because of generous assistance of several other colleges Wellesley resumed her work without curtailment of any courses. By crowding students in the remaining dormitories all the girls who were "burned out" in College Hall were housed today on the campus.

Offers of twopenny to open their houses for use of their college did not have to be accepted, except in the cases of several members of the faculty who lived in College Hall.

Registration closed at 12:30 p. m. today and at 1 this afternoon academic work was in full swing—as if Wellesley had not suffered a particularly had fire three weeks ago this morning.

Temporary Building to Be Enlarged

Additions to the temporary building are to be ready by May 1. Until then the administrative and academic work will be carried on in the society houses, Farnsworth Art Building, the Library and Mark Hemenway Gymnasium.

The Shakespeare Society House containing the treasurer's and cashier's office. The dean's office was put in the pantry. Secretaries of Pres. Pendleton and Dean Alice Union Wolfe have quarters in the Elizabethan Theatre.

Receptions in English composition were begun in the Phi Sigma house. German classes were opened in the Tan Zeta Epitaph house and several Spanish courses were held in the Zeta Alpha house. A temporary psychology laboratory was opened in the basement of the Agora house. Physics courses were divided between the small chemistry building and Wilder Hall basement. Zoology courses were divided between Hemenway Gymnasium and the biology laboratories in Stone Hall.

A temporary bookstore and post-office were opened in Billings Hall. At the extreme west end of the destroyed College Hall there was opened a temporary lunch-room for nonresident members of the faculty.

Most of the students who escaped from College Hall in the early morning fire, losing practically everything, will be housed in the four quadrangle dormitories—Booth, Pomeroy, Cazenove and Shafter Halls. Four smaller and older dormitories, Freeman, Wood Wilder and Stone Halls, will accommodate the rest of the students, who formerly lived in the main building.

Trustees of Wellesley sent out a plea to alumnae for $1,500,000 for the erection of new college buildings and endowment within two years.

Returning students began plans today for spring festivities. Tree Day it was announced, will be celebrated May 29, and commencement will come June 16.

The recent Dollar Day in Rochester was so successful that the merchants of that city contemplate holding another on Wednesday, April 15.

NEW GUINEA'S QUEER TRIBES

Claim Dog as Ancestor and SHUN Fire-arms and Cannibals.

There seems to be no end to the stories of strange people and customs to be found in New Guinea. The latest news from this island is given by Mr. W. N. Beaver, resident magistrate in the western division of New Guinea.

Two of the most interesting expeditions in which Mr. Beaver took part were to the Glara country, which for three parts of the year is almost entirely submerged.

These people claim descent from a dog. They possess fire, totems, which are drawn on all their houses. Their villages are erected on hillsides so as to be clear of the water, and the people of each village inhabit one large common house.

The center of this huge building is a kind of common hall, which is used only by the men. The women are not allowed to enter the building by the same door as the men.

In the wilder parts of the country the chief is himself a head sorcerer. He claims to be able to breathe his spirit from his body and to send it on various missions, including that of killing people. Quite recently a number of sorcerers went by the house of a native on whom they cast a spell by pointing at him a human bone. They afterward murdered their victim.

Mr. Beaver explored a large tract of country in Dutch New Guinea, where the majority of the people had never before been visited. These were very primitive folk, armed with bows and arrows. They assume a fierce aspect by inserting kangaroo claws in their nostrils and by wearing in their hair artificial tails extending to their waists.

In one district near Daru it is the custom to brand, by means of a mark on the shoulder, girl children with the mark of the men they are subsequently to marry. Cannibalism still exists.

One of the most curious movements that has recently been brought to light prevails along the northeastern coast. It is known as the Baigona movement, and its operations almost approach sorcery. Great respect is paid to snakes, none of which is allowed to be killed.

Football.

If you are getting on in years—nay, to the time when the young fellows begin to caution you that it is imprudent to run upstairs—it is a good thing to go out to a football game and renew your youth. A perfectly silly thing, a football game, you think as you see the struggling, swaying mass in the middle of the field. And the cheer leader. Did you ever see anything more ridiculous than the utter seriousness of his manner as he solemnly calls for "nine rabs" for so-and-so?

But as the game progresses and you see some thrilling runs around the end and some reckless tackling and some nifty line bucking, all for the honor of the team and the college—well, you begin to warm up. Before the last quarter is over you have picked your team, if you hadn't one to start with, and are pulling frantically for it to get the ball across that stanchly defended goal line.

After all, youth is a great thing. The well-fought college football game, with its fine abandon and its compelling enthusiasm and its fervid admonitions from the roosters to "Hold—that—line!" makes the blood flow faster through the veins of the most sedate person of middle age.—Kansas City Times.

George Junior Republics. William Reuben George of New York, being interested in the condition of neglected boys and girls, started the George Junior Republic in Freeville, N. Y., in 1895. There are now Republics in several states. A National of Junior Republics was formed in 1908 with Mr. George as general director. In the Junior Republics boys and girls between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one vote as citizens, and the citizens fill all the offices. Any infraction of the domestic, educational, industrial and political rules is tried by jury in accordance with the provisions of the constitution, to which each member of the community is a consenting party. Work is paid for according to its value. Idleness is punished with starvation, and crime by a graded system of penalties. The motto is "Nothing Without Labor." Each Junior Republic has in connection with it a Junior Republic association, incorporated under the state laws, which acts as a board of trustees and of final authority. Write Secretary, George Junior Republic, Grove City, Pa.

Obedient Instructions. He was a bright young office boy, and in the dim future saw himself sitting in the manager's chair. "Please, sir," he said, entering the room of his chief, after being sent to deliver a note, "the lady was out and I could not deliver your message."

"Go back immediately," said his employer, impatiently. "If the lady is still out put the note through the letter box or under the door. Get it into the house somehow; don't bring it back here. Now be off!"

Some little time passed, and then young hopeful returned with a satisfied smile and an air of conscious pride at having overcome all difficulties, and confident of rapid promotion. "Well?" jerked out his employer. "There was no letter box, sir, and the note wouldn't go under the door, so I tore it up into little bits and shoved it through the keyhole."

BILLIARD COMPANY TO SHOW INVESTMENTS

New Haven, Conn., April 7.—J. M. Koehersperger, a vice president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in charge of its finances and accounts was served with a subpoena today to appear with other railroad officers and local bankers before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington on Friday next, to give information concerning the Billiard Company, which bought stock holdings of the New Haven Company in the Boston and Maine Railroad.

The subpoena appears to be broader in its scope than others which have been served here, in that it commands Mr. Koehersperger to produce books and accounts of the Billiard Company, the New England Securities Company which held trolley properties in Massachusetts, the New England Navigation Company, which holds the marine properties of the New Haven company, and also books and accounts of the New Haven road itself.

Mr. Koehersperger has been granted leave of absence as vice president until July 1, when his resignation becomes effective.

"Green Stockings" at the present time is being produced by both amateurs and professionals in this country and abroad, and never fails to make a hit. At Association Hall April 16 and 17.

warmly congratulated by many of our citizens, irrespective of party, on the firm stand that he took regarding the removal of the Portsmouth stone which has been a landmark at the junction of Congress and Vaughan

VETERAN PHOTOGRAPHER DEAD

Lafayette V. Newell Passes Away this Morning as the Result of a Paralytic Shock

Lafayette V. Newell, the veteran photographer, died on Wednesday morning at his home on Pleasant street, as the result of a paralytic shock sustained early last week.

He was born in Barnstead April 12, 1833, the son of William H. and Olive Newell, and is the twin brother of Albert M. Newell of Haverhill, Mass.
He was one of thirteen children and his early life was passed on his father's farm in that town and Pittsfield.
His father being a veteran farmer having a record of having 100 hills of corn in a day after he was 35 years of age.

Young Newell attended the district school and became very proficient in penmanship, so much so that when he was 21 he went to Concord and taught penmanship and wrote address cards, his writing resembling copper plate.

In 1856 he engaged in the photographic business in that city, but after six months' time he came to Portsmouth and resumed the teaching of writing. He also kept books for John Swindle, who conducted a small brewery and was the beginning of the Frank Jones plant.

At the beginning of the Civil war he returned to Concord and went into partnership with Baker Bros., who conducted a magnifying business and their principal business for a time was making photographs at the substitute camp.

In 1862 at the solicitation of his brother, Albert M., a member of the 12th New Hampshire Volunteers, he went to Port Lookout, Md., where the 5th, 6th and 12th New Hampshire regiments were engaged in guarding 25, 000 rebel prisoners.

He bought lumber for a gallery in Baltimore and the same was transported to Port Lookout, a distance of 100 miles, and in seven days' time a structure 25x12 feet had been put up and he was ready for business. Business was so good that he remained at Point Lookout until the close of the war, during the intervening time making pictures of many of the officers and men stationed there, among the number being General Barnes of Boston, who was in command of the forces at Point Lookout.

The taking of pictures was not confined to the men of the Union army, as many Confederate prisoners also had a sitting and for a time Mr. Newell had a rebel prisoner for an assistant.

In 1866 Mr. Newell returned to Portsmouth and for a time was engaged in the grocery business with his wife's father, the late John Rider, at the corner of Bow and Pennallow streets. It was while engaged in the grocery business that something occurred that caused Mr. Newell severe grief.

He had stored in the attic of the building two large trunks containing negatives taken while at Point Lookout and on one day had occasion to go to one of the trunks only to find that both had been broken open by boys and their contents taken out and broken into small pieces on the floor.

About 35 years ago Mr. Newell again engaged in the photograph business in this city.

He married Miss Annie S. Rider, daughter of John and Jane Rider, July 2, 1857, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Charles Burroughs, then pastor of St. John's Episcopal church, who survives him, together with one son, John W. Newell.

Mr. Newell was a member of De-Witt Clinton Commandery, Knights Templars, Washington chapter, and
St. Andrews Lodge, 55, A. F. and A. M.
